Vol. 25, No. 3

McAndrew Reunion Just Days Away!

It's Time!

The motel is pumped, and has been for weeks.

Check out our website for the latest details of the coming reunion: www.wooleverhome.com. Information is fine-tuned there nearly every day. You might even hear some Irish music while there.

Silent Auction helps cover expenses

You may remember the "old days" when we charged a per person fee to cover reunion expenses for food, beverages and other fees related to the hospitality room and picnic. In recent years, the silent auction has covered those expenses.

That means that we need a lot of you to contribute items to the silent auction, and then a lot of you to bid for those auction items. It's been fun over the years, with some very interesting items, reflecting a family connection, or items related to the lives of individual family members, or items reflecting our Irish heritage, just to mention a few examples.

Hopefully you've already had your brain working on silent auction items, but if not, it's not too late. Somebody will cherish the memorabilia that you bring.

If you have not been to the reunion for a few years, here's what individuals now pay for themselves:

- travel
- motel room
- golf fees if you choose to do the golf outing
- Sunday brunch ($7.99/adult; $3.99/12-and-under)
- extra meals, as desired
- other entertainment, as desired

Food and beverages will be provided in the hospitality room Friday evening, and at the picnic Saturday, and before the talent show. You can count on a real meal being available Friday evening — special circumstances have arisen...be sure to drop in at dinner time Friday.

What should you do right now?

Call and make a reservation. Make sure the rest of your family is doing the same. Plan your trip. If you have any questions, please call Mary or Greg. As always, this is going to be fun!
